Why does there seem to be a strong correlation between left-wing men either allowing their girlfriends to fuck other guys, or being literal apologists for pedophiles?

Many such cases.

Almost like they don't have the moral high ground?

NO ID CARDS

Today is an important day to say loud + clear: no national ID, no vaccine ID, no voter ID!

69 yrs ago today in 1952, Winston Churchill's govnt scrapped ID cards. Why? In his words, to "set the people free".

Here's a story about Britain's rejection of ID cards.

Essential worker: "Social distancing is virtually non-existent."

I am what you would call an 'essential worker'. I am a student who currently works at a supermarket around 4 or five days a week. My brother who I currently live with is also in this category and he works at a different supermarket in the same town. Aside from the odd 'Karen' middle class mum, social distancing is 'virtually non existant'. Customers have people coming up close to the serving workers to find their aisles and no one is even remotely practicing it within. There is no limit on how many people can enter the shop. None of the staff wear masks as wearing one for a prolonged period of time (c 6 hours) is extremely uncomfortable and having to readjust them or touching your face completely destroys the purpose of wearing one. The staff room and the toilets are pretty filthy so much so that I wash my hand sanitiser for touching every single appliance. The staff themselves don't practice any form of social distancing as it makes their job literally impossible. Just to mention, everyone is working twice as hard to stock the shelves because people will continue to stock pile. My wife delivers again and I wash my hands constantly and refrain from ever touching my face which ironically is probably the best scientific defence against contracting the virus.

There's been a huge explosion in the number of Americans identifying as LGBT. Close to 1 out of every 5 Gen Z so identifies (17%). That's more than a 4-fold increase from Gen X (4%).

But almost all of the increase comes from those identifying as bi or trans, not gay or lesbian:

Stop Press: Matthew [illegible] in the newspaper, [illegible] "grievous [illegible] freedom

Vaccine passports are yet another totalitarian step on the road to a devised, permission-based society. We won't be able to travel, work in an office, or meet up with friends unless some official somewhere has stamped our papers. We won't be able to [illegible] it is already going to be a struggle to unwind the impact of nearly a year of lockdown, when people had the most intimate areas of their lives micromanaged by the state. The danger was always that this state of affairs will become entrenched, that we accept the new rules, forgetting both the lives we had to put on hold before we did it. Vaccine passports would have to institutionalise that mindset, an horrendous cost to freedom and much else.

There is a fix for this solution. Once vaccines are available to everyone, it is up to you whether you get one or not. Given that, for most people, you are doing a risk vs. reward analysis. When that runs, you should be able to live your life as you please. We need to be working out how to reduce the massive overreach in state power witnessed over a painful months, not finding new ways to permanently increase it.

I went to CPAC 2 years ago and it was literally one of the most boring experiences of my life.

Had a more memorable experience in a retirement home when my Grandma was dying of Alzheimer's.

Everyone there needs to leave.

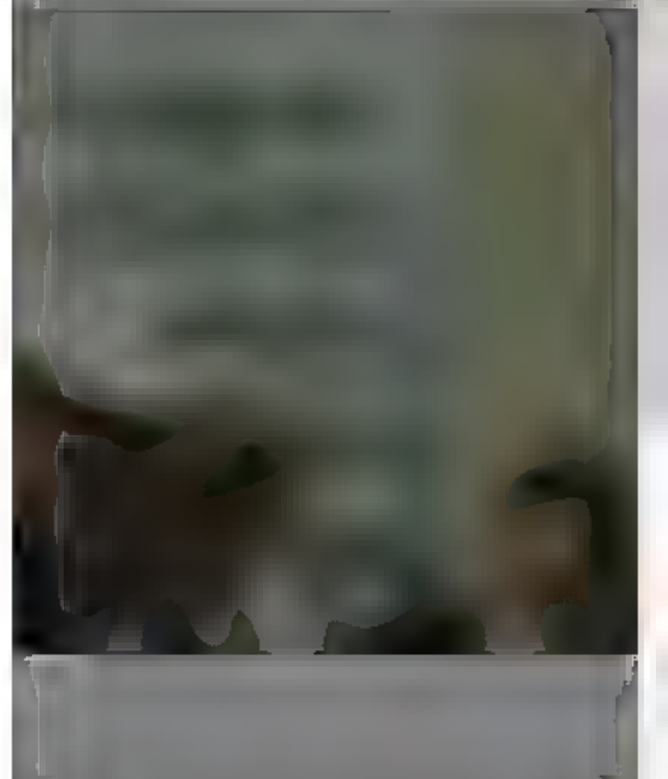
NEW: Issuing an executive order to lift the mask mandate and open Texas to 100 percent.

mandate in Texas and increasing capacity for all businesses and facilities in the state to 100 percent. The Governor made the announcement at Montelongo s Mexican Restaurant in Lubbock in an address to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

"With the medical advancements of vaccines and antibody therapeutic drugs, Texas now has the tools to protect Texans from the virus," said Governor Abbott. "We must now do more to restore livelihoods and normalcy for Texans by opening Texas 100 percent. Make no mistake, COVID-19 has not disappeared, but it is clear from the recoveries, vaccinations, reduced hospitalizations, and safe practices that Texans are using that state mandates are no longer needed. Today s announcement does not abandon safe practices that Texans have mastered over the past year. Instead, it is a reminder that each person has a role to play in their own personal safety and the safety of others. With this executive order, we are ensuring that all businesses and families in Texas have the freedom to determine their own destiny."

During his remarks, the Governor discussed the incredible advancements that Texas has made that allow the state to open fully and lift the mask mandate—noting the rapid increase of vaccines. Nearly 5 7 million vaccine shots have been administered to Texans and the state is now administering almost one million shots each week. By next Wednesday, about 7 million shots will have been administered in Texas and over half of seniors n Texas will have received a vaccine shot. By the end of March, every senior who wants a vaccine should be able to get one. The vaccine supply continues to increase so rapidly that more and more Texans will soon be eligible to receive a vaccine

The Governor noted that Texas has a surplus of personal protective equipment and can perform over 100 000 COVID-19 tests a day. The state has nvested in a variety of anti-body therapeutic drugs that have kept thousands of Texans out of hospitals. Texans have also adopted daily habits that reduce the risk of COVID-19 exposure and infection. More than 2 5 million Texans who were ab confirmed or COVID-19 have recovered since the beginning of the pandemic, and experts note the total number of Texans who have recovered from COVID-19 is likely 4 5 times that amount. The number of active COVID-19 cases is the lowest since November, meaning more Texans are recovering from COVID-19 than contracting it.



This executive order rescinds most of the Governor s earlier executive orders related to COVID-19. Effective next Wednesday, all businesses of any type may open to 100% capacity. Additionally, this order ends the statewide mask mandate in Texas. Businesses may still limit capacity or implement additional safety protocols at their own discretion.

If COVID-19 hospitalizations in any of the 22 hospital regions in Texas get above 15% of the hospital bed capacity in that region for seven straight days, a County Judge in that region may use COVID-19 mitigation strategies. However, County Judges may not impose [illegible] for not following COVID-19 orders nor may jail penalties be imposed for failing to

I've got a nice cache of information. Apparently @TMobile employees must complete a white privilege checklist.

Stay tuned for more insanity

White Privilege Checklist

Peggy McIntosh, Associate Director of the Wellesley College Center for Research on Women describes white privilege as "an invisible package of unearned assets which I can count on cashing in each day, but about which I was meant to remain oblivious. White privilege is like an invisible weightless knapsack of special provisions, maps, passports, code books, visas, clothes, tools and blank checks." McIntosh, 1989)

The following are examples of ways white individuals have privilege because they are white. Please read the statements, place a check next to the privileges that you have not, may have encountered. At the end, try to list at least two more ways in which you have privilege based on your race.

1. I can arrange to be in the company of people of my race most of the time.
2. I can go shopping alone most of the time, pretty well assured that I will not be followed or harassed.
3. I can turn on the television or open to the front page of the paper and see people of my race widely represented.
4. When I am told about our national heritage or about "civilization," I am shown that people of my color made it what it is.
5. I can be sure that my children will be given curricular materials that testify to the existence of their race.
6. If I want to, I can go into a music shop and count on finding the music of my race represented, into a supermarket and find the food I grew up with, into a hairdresser's shop and find someone who can deal with my hair.
7. Whether I use checks, credit cards, or cash, I can count on my skin color not to work against the appearance of financial responsibility.
8. I am not made acutely aware that my shape, bearing, or body odor will be taken as a reflection on my race.
9. I can worry about racism without being seen as self-interested or self-seeking.
10. If I can't find a job, or can't enroll in a college with an affirmative action policy, without having my competence or peers assume I got it because of my race.
11. I can be late to a meeting without having the lateness reflect on my race.
12. I can choose public accommodation without fearing that people of my race cannot get in or be singled out for mistreatment.
13. I can be sure that I will not be asked to speak for all of the people of my racial group.
14. I can be pretty sure that if I ask to talk with the person in charge, I will be talking with a person of my race.
15. If a traffic cop pulls me over or if the IRS audits my tax return, I can be sure I haven't been singled out because of my race.

Google is up to no good.

Google

whether or how a given algorithmic behavior should be addressed

If a representation is factually accurate, can it still be algorithmic unfairness?

Yes. For example, imagine that a Google image query for "CEOs" shows predominantly men. Even if it were a factually accurate representation of the world, it would be algorithmic unfairness because it would reinforce a stereotype about the role of women in leadership positions. However, factual accuracy may affect product policy's position on whether or how it should be addressed. In some cases, it may be appropriate to take no action if the system accurately reflects current reality, while in other cases it may be desirable to consider how we might help society reach a more fair and equitable state, via either product intervention or broader corporate social responsibility efforts.

Sidney Powell always came across as very QAnonny.

QAnon is and always has been a stupid distraction and a dead end.

Why do you think the legacy media endlessly hypes it up?

Maybe this will finally bring the whole charade to an end.

50% of “online misogyny” is women talking about other women, so ironically this will censor women.

Markle says there were "conversations about how dark his skin might be when he's born."

I clearly remember leftist Twitter being obsessed with that & talking about it endlessly.

To claim those convos only took place within the Royal Family is absurd, they originated here.

> I asked a girl out for coffee at the food court at University and she said "oh my gosh this is the first time I've ever been asked like this, can you say that again so I can snap it?" And i said what ? Why ? And she responded " so I can put it on my story ! this is like what you see on tv " she wanted me to pretend to come walking around the corner and ask her the same way so she can record it. I just told her no thanks and never mind and to have a nice day. I swear we live in the Matrix

In the late 20th century, being "right-wing" was partly characterized by a zeal to ban "offensive" speech and protect the interests of giant corporations to impose themselves on the public square via the formation of unaccountable monopolies.

I know many women who regard the infantilizing treatment of women professionals -- such as 30-something journalists trying to preclude criticism by claiming "trauma" -- as insulting and even misogynistic. But weirdly the views of those women don't tend to be represented in media

Pointing out that it's unwise for young women to walk alone in dangerous areas of London at night isn't "misogyny" or "victim blaming," it's common sense.

Unlike in your fictional utopia, the real world contains real threats beyond mean words on the Internet.

This new political battle does not break down along left v. right lines. This is an information war waged by corporate media to silence any competition or dissent.

They try to minimize and dismiss what they are doing as a "culture war" to mask how repressive it really is.

George Floyd had multiple autopsies performed and they all concluded the same: he did not die from compression to his throat. He was a drug addict who had enough drugs in him to overdose.

The facts are that Derek Chauvin did not cause his death.

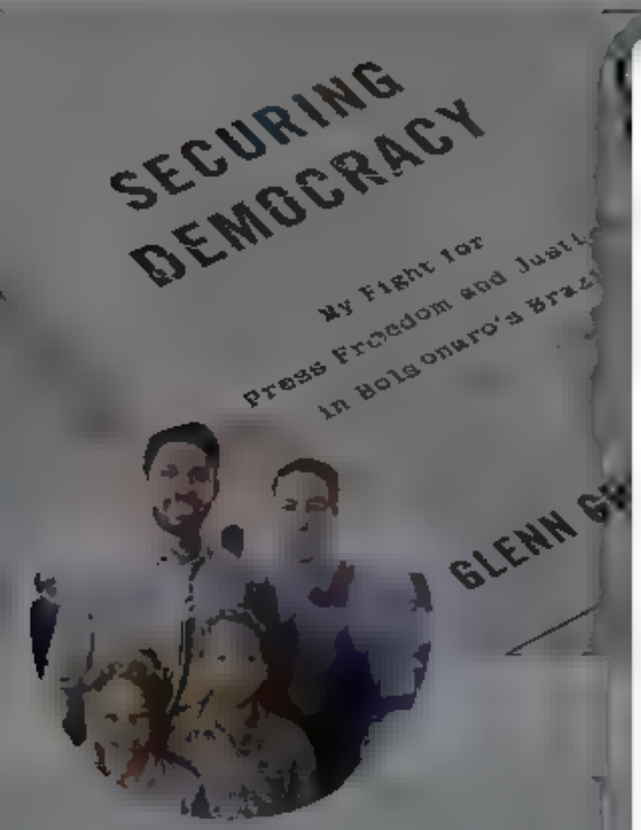
Right now we are watching a trial of feelings vs. facts.
No one is comfortable with what Derek Chauvin did. He was negligent. But we should be more discomforted with establishing precedent for sending people to prison because of how the public "feels".



Slipperiest slope ever.

Also, if journalists want to continue to claim that any criticisms of their journalism constitutes "harassment" and "incitement of abuse," they're going to need to come up with a list of which journalists can be harshly criticized and which are off-limits. It's seems arbitrary

Yes, those in power care so much for women's safety.

That's exactly why boats filled with unchecked migrant men show up regularly on our coasts without action from the government or basic coverage from mainstream media outlets.

Campaigning for the law to be changed so women are legally allowed to defend themselves with pepper spray is too much like hard work for feminists.

Easier to just grift for dopamine, TV appearances and book sales by blaming all men, a lazy, divisive gesture that solves nothing.

Do you really think classing "misogyny" as a "hate crime" will stop murderers?

Why are feminists responding to the killing of a woman by pushing for legislation that will primarily target speech?

Meanwhile, virtually zero discussion of allowing women to carry pepper spray.

People shocked that a Charlie Hebdo cover is "offensive."

In other news, the sky is still blue.

Nadine White @NadineWrites
French magazine Charlie Hebdo mocks George Floyd's murder and Meghan's racism concerns. The cover reads "Why Meghan left Buckingham Palace, Because I couldn't breathe"

Remember when word leaders joined a global movement to defend free speech after jihadists massacred Charlie Hebdo cartoonists in 2015 for the "crime" of being offensive?

Most people on here don't.

The Australian bushfires have nothing to do with 'climate change'.

In fact, green policies that outlawed controlled burns & fire breaks made the situation far worse.

Many of the fires were also deliberately started.

They're lying to you.

metro.co.uk/2021/02/11/boy ...

Liz Plank @femmestabulous

White masculinity fetishizes and dehumanizes asian women and it is intrinsically tied to racism.

It's crucial that we don't erase the way that misogyny and racism operate...

What a bizarre thing for the BBC to sneer and snigger at. What's wrong with ministers of the British government having the flag and the monarch on display?

This warped "lesson" illustrates the real danger: the message that sent to everyone -- but particularly young people -- is they should never utter a single heterodox or dissenting view because it will be used against them forever. The best way to breed a pure conformist society.

Right - as Substack increasingly refuses to capitulate to the censorship demands of woke despots, the attacks will intensify, because -- like all tyrants -- they can't allow an example to stand of someone who doesn't capitulate to them: that will erode their intimidation powers:

> Matt Taibbi @mtaibbi
> At mainstream newsrooms across the country, reporters and editors are being forced out because staffers increasingly insist upon and are being granted the right to a homogenous political environment. Twitter says the British flag is "problematic."

UK national news 47 minutes ago

Why the UK flag is sometimes considered a controversial symbol

Comments made by BBC Breakfast presenter Charlie Stayt have led to a debate around both disrespect for the Union Jack and the problematic history often associated with the UK's national flag. During an interview the government's housing minister Robert Jenrick spoke in front of a large Union Flag. Biden is practically running up those stairs. He is in terrific physical condition. That carpet is slippery against the smooth leather soles of his shoes. We've all slipped on a stair at sometime in our lives. This is not news.

Turns out that when you start demanding that Silicon Valley monopolies police online discourse, their algorithms will do it imperfectly and they'll start censorsing not just the views you hate but also the ones you like. Who could've ever predicted this would happen? Whoops.

FBI crime statistics debunk the media's narrative that white people represent the biggest violent crime threat to Asians, with figures showing whites significantly underrepresented in crime stats compared to their per capita population.

One of the most viral videos in the country on the day of the Atlanta shootings was one completely doctored in meaning through dishonest editing by @atrupar -- something he has been caught doing so many times. See for yourself. How many did this deceive?

> Robby Soave @robbysoave
> Wow. If you watch the full video, it's clear the police spokesperson is summarizing the suspect's explanation of his own actions to investigators. Vox journalist Aaron Rupar framed this to make it sound like the cop was making excuses for him. Remarkable dishonesty

18 years ago today began the Iraq War.

It left a trail of destruction and devastation with no accountability.

This injustice of this is laid bare in the irony that the only individual who has paid a price, is the one who brought us evidence of war crimes:

Julian Assange.

Oh shit. Nothing scrambles leftists' brains more than juxtaposing their innate hatred for humanity (which they try to hide via virtue signalling) versus their concern for environmental issues. Who wins?

There are calls for more environmentally-friendly personal protective equipment (PPE). Pic: AP

The NHS should use more eco-friendly personal protective equipment, academics and medics say.

Researchers say more than one billion single-use disposable masks were used

The main reason journalists are being fired is because they're ugly and boring, & no one cares about anything they have to say.

Which is also why journalists devote 100% of their time trying to deplatform attractive, authentic people who are interesting & have something to say.

There's a massive disparity amongst conservatives as to whether the coronavirus represents a massive threat or an overblown panic.

However, I think we can all agree on what its proper name should be.

Anarcho-Tyranny Reigns Supreme twitter.com/PoliticsForAll ...

> So here we are, watching the police unable to enforce and protect citizens from violence, allowing BLM and Antifa to continue their public damage by defacing statues and tearing down others all the while law abiding citizens continue to be hounded for their violations of hate speech, their communications monitored and their lives ever at threat from increasing violent crime in big cities. These protests are not an example of a sudden breakdown of law and order, they are the natural result of years of deterioration by the authorities when it comes to the enforcement of said law and order.

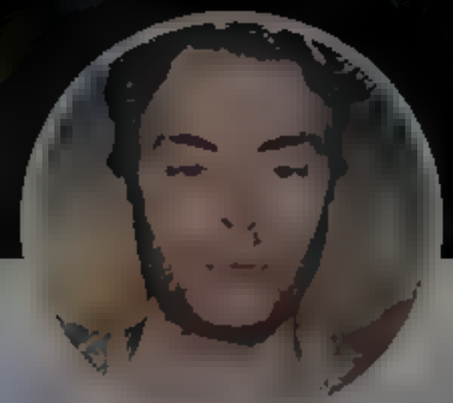
Wake up everyone, this is not about racial justice.



These people want all-out anarchy and street violence.

FACT TWO: Trans athletes do not have an unfair advantage in sports.

MYTH: Trans athletes' physiological characteristics provide an unfair advantage over cis athletes.

Trans athletes vary in athletic ability just like cisgender athletes. In many states, the very same cis girls who have claimed that trans athletes have an "unfair" advantage have consistently performed as well as or better than transgender competitors.

Despite the UK's largely successful rollout of the coronavirus vaccine, a public health official says masks and other social distancing restrictions are likely to remain in place for years because the public has become used to them.

Please remember today that while it's exactly one year since we went into lockdown, it is not a year since the virus arrived in the UK.
It was probably here in September 2019, definitely November at the latest.
It took us five months to notice the 'deadliest virus in 100 years'.

A crucial question All scientists and science journalists should currently be asking is,
"What happened in March 2020 that suddenly made this previously inconsequential virus become such a deadly threat?"
I've heard some suggest dormancy But coronaviruses don't do dormancy

We went from "girl power!" to "STFU and let biological men go into your bathrooms, beat you at your sports, rape you in your all-female prisons, and if you object or acknowledge how it's unfair and not in line with reality or science than you're a transphobic bigot" really fast.

There's a pathological fear among many of being labeled a "bigot" and it's led otherwise intelligent people to abandon all sense of reason. Fear trumps reason every time

That's why "slippery slope" should no longer be mainly considered as a logical fallacy, but a political and effective modus operandi in decadent times like ours.

A lot to unpack here.

Mommar @MsterCommodity

Walking out on the bill is SO common during spring break that waiters are now having to chase down patrons and tackle them on the street. Oh yeah and don't forget the women twerking and blocking traffic which happens on every street corner...

People are comparing the arrests of the white male suspects at the center of recent shootings in Boulder and Atlanta to the 2019 death of unarmed Black man Elijah McClain. An independent investigation led by the Aurora, Colorado, city council had found that police officers involved in the fatal confrontation with McClain did not have a legal basis to stop or physically restrain him

If the shooter is a white supremacist, the event is an indictment of all white people and America. If the shooter is an Islamist, it is a completely individual act that has nothing to do with ideology.

This is bullshit. If we define "mass shooting" as a shooting where four or more people are struck (the FBI's definition) then no way in hell are the majority carried out by white men. With a more limited definition, white men still commit less than their share.

> Meena Harris @meenaharris
> I deleted a previous tweet about the suspect in the Boulder shooting. I made an assumption based on his being taken into custody alive and the fact that the majority of mass shootings in the U.S. are carried out by white men.

Twitter is awful after mass shootings, terrorism, police shootings. So few wait for evidence before making bold pronouncements about the event, are so eager to harness the carnage for a forced political narrative. Nonstop sloganeering to exploit the algorithm and gain easy clout.

Hard to overstate this travesty.

Twitter believes, per its own words, that "dehumanizing language" has a causal relationship with mass violence against the targeted group.

If they genuinely believe that, then they are seemingly OK with mass violence against white people.

"Experts" were wrong? Surely not.

> Experts had braced themselves for a rise in COVID cases following the reopening of schools in England on 8 March - but with a possible two-week delay in people testing positive after coming into contact with the virus it does not appear to have materialised.

Anti-Asian hate crimes increased mostly in democrat New York, Los Angeles and Boston, and somehow it's Trump's fault.

Meanwhile, Washington, D.C., experienced a rise in from six to three anti-Asian hate crimes. Chicago remained unchanged with two crimes each year.

Though New York accounts for a sizable portion of the increase Ramakrishnan said the increases in other cities are significant.

What's painfully ironic about these idiotic takes is that they actually promote an ideology of white supremacy, themselves. The idea that black people have no agency and can only engage in animalistic reactions is the very position of a white supremacist.

This isn't a deleted scene from The Inbetweeners. This is Charlie, a 20 year old student from Devon at the protest in Bristol the other night.

Exactly what you would expect from bored students trying to take on the establishment.

This video is truly shocking and should receive George Floyd-level condemnation.

But because it happened during an anti-lockdown event, the media won't even touch it.

Gee, I wonder if the media will forget about the fact that a black Muslim extremist violently attacked the Capitol in DC will all be forgotten about by Monday?

Place your fucking bets.

The media is only tweeting the Capitol terrorists name "Noah Green from Indiana" without a photo, the fact he attacked on Good Friday or the fact that he's a rabid follower of Louis Farrakhan + Nation of Islam. Why aren't they giving the details they'd normally give? 🤔

As Theodore Dalrymple wrote, "In my study of communist societies, I came to the conclusion that the purpose of communist propaganda was not to persuade or convince, not to inform, but to humiliate, and therefore the less it corresponded to reality the better. When people are forced to remain silent when they are being told the most obvious lies, or even worse when they are forced to repeat the lies themselves, they lose once and for all their sense of probity. To assent to obvious lies is in some small way to become evil oneself. One's standing to resist anything is thus eroded and even destroyed. A society of emasculated liars is easy to control."

Police shut down a Good Friday service in a Church in London yesterday.

The Christians should have held the service outside of Batley Grammar School where police never disperse gatherings.

A two tier policing system with gatherings is never good. If they believe that you'll be violent, you'll be left alone. If they believe you will be civil & peaceful, they will enforce rules tougher on you

This is how you handle police who enter a church without a warrant. They're lucky they only got a tongue-lashing: s. 176 of the Criminal Code makes it a crime to disturb a church service. Those @CalgaryPolice thugs were breaking the law (and knew it).

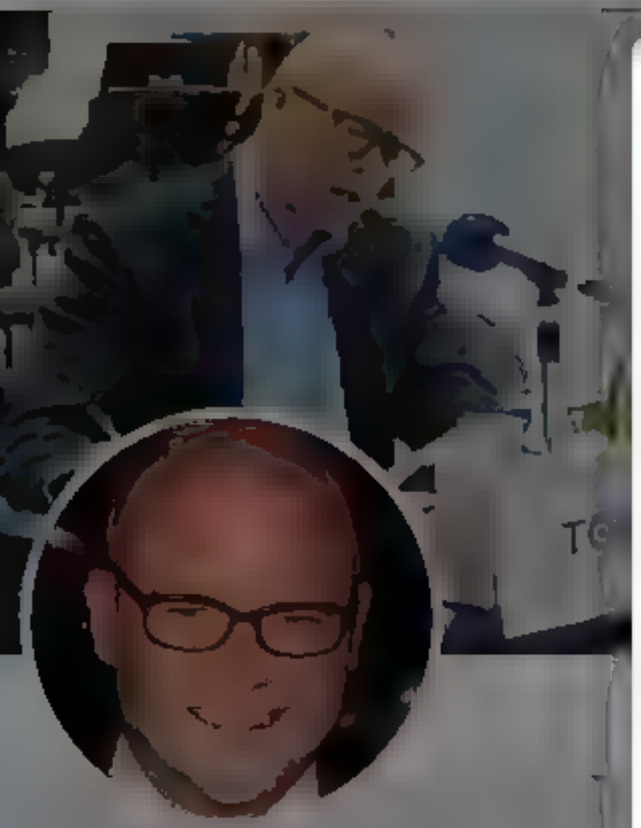
Apr st 2021 UKCA news

In response to numerous media enquiries in the last few days, the UK Cinema Association today reiterated its opposition to any requirement that UK cinemas might be required to ask customers to 'prove' their COVID-free status when sites are allowed to re-open in the coming weeks



The use of such certificates or COVID passports' as they had been called in some quarters to allow certain sectors to open up post lockdown is currently the subject of a Government review

His ministers use 'vaccine passport' as a euphemism but even this sounded awful to him. He corrected those who said 'passport', referring instead to a 'Covid status certification.' But a certificate doesn't have someones photo on it. What we're planning is a digital identity card, linked to NHS records and loaded with personal health data, so a biometric identity card. The BBC's Iain Watson asked whether we would like to take this opportunity to reassure sceptics that while could be useful for big events, you will not need to take a certificate to the local pub to gain entry. Boris Johnsons reply

Quite wrong for Boris to use to try to tie Prince Philip's lifetime of work to the modern green movement.

The two are as distinct as to be opposite.

Prince Philip's environmentalism was very much on the basis of genuinely preserving heritage, not an excuse for global socialism.

Nobody who actually loved Britain would like this God awful music, which does nothing but promote criminality and provide terrible role models for black kids.

You obviously hate Britain and should just embrace that reality and stop being a lying, fake, inauthentic grifter.

Our government has had the population under de facto house arrest for a year.

But no, you're right, Prince Philip's face being displayed for a couple of days out of respect is "frenzied authoritarianism."

Prince Philip's notorious 'gaffes' were not gaffes; he was just willing to say what he thought without self-censoring - he didn't care how the media would react. We should all embody his spirit; don't self censor, say what you think. Never apologise. The truth will set you free.

This is SNL's musical artist tonight. Don't let it be lost on you that instead of giving young men strong role models who model masculinity positively, men get this type of thing marketed to them. This isn't a sign of a healthy culture or society.

The claim from #DaunteWright's mother & #BLM activists that he was killed by police over air fresheners is unsubstantiated There was a warrant for his arrest. He resisted arrest & got back in the vehicle & tried to speed off He nearly killed others during the failed escape pic.twitter.com/yqPpeyJ

I'm asked why the coverage in Portland on #antifa is so poor & often propagandistic. One problem is because the local press are extremely biased. No surprise. Another is that there is a whole class of antifa w/cameras who call themselves journalists. They then give quotes to MSM.

Liberals haven't accepted that they are losing the power to decide who can and can't speak and what they can and can't say. But the sensation of this hegemony slipping out of their despotic fingers is causing a fair amount of frustration, resentment & anger. Expect it to grow.

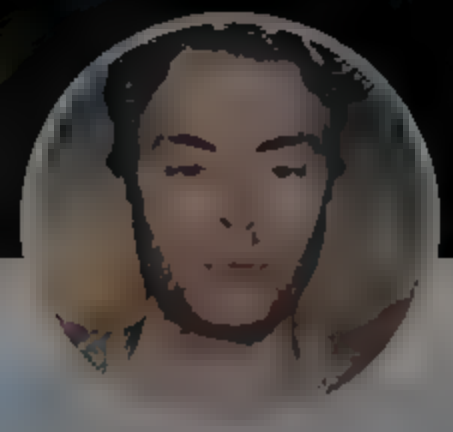
Hi @ADL,

I saw that you're calling for @TuckerCarlson's firing for his views on immigration.

But it seems like you might be operating with a bit of a double standard in regard to whether criticizing mass migration & demographic change is acceptable.



Would you care to clarify?

The woman is not wrong. In fact, Washington state radio host Dori Monson has detailed several accounts of women who are housed in women's prisons in the state and have been raped by gender non-conforming males who identify as transgender and have successfully been transferred into women's prisons. Monson writes that there were "two inmates moved from male to female prison. One is a serial killer who admitted to killing

Some airlines now mandating not just masks, but full face visors and gloves for passengers.

Lockdown Sceptics readers Willow and Nigel have written us a postcard from their terrifying trip to the Maldives where everyone just wasn't doing enough to keep them 100% safe

Our journey to the Maldives began with sullivan. Covid safe measures in place. Heathrow was a Covid friendly delight with strict social distancing and mask wearing enforced. We were comforted by our airline mandating full face visors over our masks alongside gloves to all passengers. Prior to boarding all passengers congregate with others, including one a great deal of years being in the midst of menopause. Mercifully passed and was relieved to see all crew and sensibly dressed in outfits suitable for a modern operating theatre

However I did nearly withdraw my carbon offset payment when I noticed a fellow passenger wearing his visor and gloves. He was now been moved to my cabin in a business class, but Nigel and I felt reckless in the midst of a global pandemic

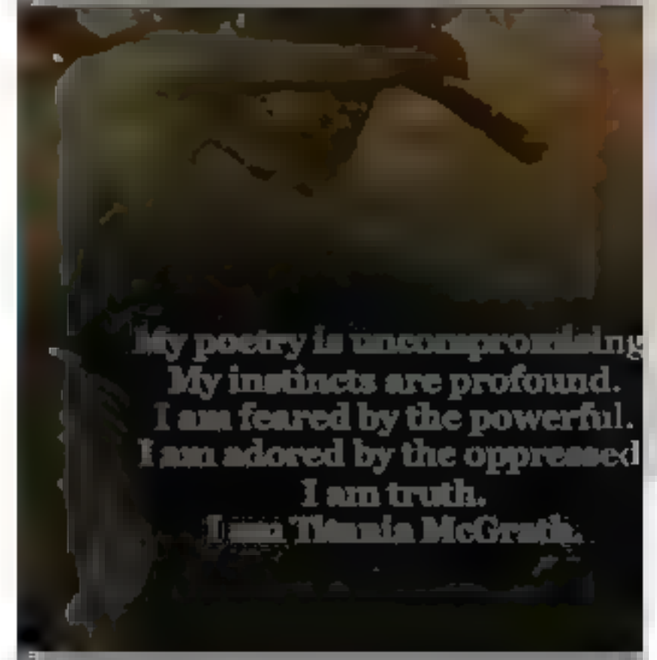
As the @guardian points out, Genghis Khan's acts of genocide were remarkably eco-friendly.

So the next time someone complains about Stalin's "Great Purge", just remind them that he was simply trying to reduce his carbon footprint.

Shortcuts



Why Genghis Khan was

Genghis Khan, in fact, may have been not just the greatest warrior but the greatest eco-warrior of all time, according to a study by the Carnegie Institution's Department of Global Energy. It has concluded that the 13th-century Mongol leader's bloody advance, laying waste to vast swaths of territory and wiping out entire civilisations en route, may have scrubbed 700m tonnes of carbon from the atmosphere – roughly the quantity of carbon dioxide generated in a year through global petro. consumption by allowing previously populated and cultivated land to return to carbon-absorbing forest

Lockdown has accelerated our social isolation, but apps implemented it. "No one talks to each other in bars anymore," my friend Larra points out. "Pre-Covid, I could go to a bar with six girl mates and no one of us would have any guy talk to us because we were there in real life. One I lose looked positively terrified when my friend started a conversation with him." Those of us who lived in a pre-app world remember how much harder it used to be to meet a "member of the opposing sex," as Harry puts it. Everyone was a human being with feelings, rather than an avatar to be ghosted.

The transformation of newsrooms into political oppo shops - recognizably, with the infrastructure, tempo, ideological aims, tactics, and sensibility of oppo shops - is probably more of a symptom than a driver of our political moment. But as far that cluster of symptoms go, woof.

On March 31, @SenMikeLee and I sent a letter demanding answers about why Apple removed Parler from the App Store.

🚨Today, we received a response: Parler will be reinstated on the App Store. Huge win for free speech.

The Honorable Mike Lee
United States Senate
SR1A Russell Senate Office Building

The Honorable Ken Buck
United States House of Representatives
2456 Rayburn House Office Building

Dear Senator Lee and Congressman Buck,

I am writing in response to your letter of March 31, 2021 in which you requested additional information about Apple's decision to remove the Parler app from the App Store.

Content Policy

The guiding principle of the App Store is simple: Apple wants to provide a safe experience for users to get apps and a great opportunity for all developers to be successful. Apple does this in part by curating the App Store, including by reviewing apps to ensure compliance with all App Store Review Guidelines, which among other things set forth standards for privacy, safety, security, and performance of apps in the App Store. Today, nearly 2 million apps that comply with our Guidelines are available on the App Store. Below, we cite and describe the particular Guidelines most applicable to Apple's decision to remove the Parler app from the App Store.

Review Process

App reviews are initiated by developers before an app goes into the App Store or whenever the developer updates an app. A review may also be initiated when particular issues are brought to Apple's attention, including through customer complaints, reports from authorities, posts on social media or press reports. This work is done by an App Review Team that consists of hundreds of full-time Apple employees who review apps in over 60 languages across three time zones. Reviews also are assisted by automated systems that are used to screen app submissions for data that would indicate non-compliance with certain Guidelines, for example if an app submission included information indicating that it violates sanctions requirements or if it included software code suggesting the possibility of malware or raising privacy concerns.

Apple reviews more than 100,000 submissions per week, and App is rejects about 40% of them due to various Guidelines compliance issues. Most of these rejections are for quality issues, i.e. the apps have bugs, or crash after launching. Of those rejected apps, approximately 90% make the required changes and are approved for release on the App Store. In 2020, approximately 30,000 apps were rejected from the App Store because of issues with Guidelines 1.1 or 1.2 which are described below as relevant here. Of those apps, the majority were ultimately approved for distribution on the App Store.

First, this is a lie: Parler had terms of service from the start & enforced them (though imperfectly, like all sites: they deleted many posts construed as pro-violence).

Second, a group devoted to internet censorship is creepier and more dangerous than what they want to censor:

The blame obviously lies with the parents and the organizers, but what kind of frigging nonce would hand dollar bills to kids during a late night drag queen show?

These people never gave the slightest shit about Brian Sickick. He was a toy to them: they needed to create a lie about how he died because he was the only one they could claim was killed by pro-Trump protesters. So they invented a harrowing story that was complete bullshit.

With Sicknick confirmed to have died of natural causes, the blue checks' attempt to frame the event as a sort of domestic 9/11, including by calling it "1/6", unravels.

It was a dumb, impotent riot, and that's that. By the way, a lot of outlets need to run a lot of corrections.

The subject of John Oliver came up when a colleague (fellow psychologist) and I were discussing politics a few months ago. Although we were both in agreement regarding the general stupidity of the HBO show, my friend was surprised when I explained that the real insidiousness of it is its remarkably hypnotic structure and pacing.

Besides simply pulling up an episode (I swear it's all of youtube in show tab view), I count. All of the segments I've ever seen from this show follow the same repetitive format: present some 'argumentation' and 'facts' for about 10 seconds, then quickly follow these up with a snarky quip (which themselves overwhelmingly take the form of complete non-sequitur or otherwise absurd metaphor) before any rational processing of the preceding argument can take place in the mind of the viewer. Further telling is that the only 'beats' or mental pauses in the show's pacing exist solely to highlight the approving laughter or applause of the studio audience. Repeat this basic formula without variation 20-40 times in a row and you have one of the 12-20 minute segments that form the backbone of the show.

The end effect is (obviously) not to deliver information, but rather to literally teach the viewers (on a subconscious level) to mentally associate derisive laughter with any person or opinion that is at odds with the narrative's take on the chosen issue. And it accomplishes this by maintaining a strict adherence to a roughly 20-second cycle in which a stimulus is presented and a response is cued. This is the sense in which the show is fundamentally hypnotic in effect, even more so than its precursors in the genre (Daily Show, Colbert, etc).

In my mind, Oliver's show is representative of the media's increasing mastery of the methodologies of mass conditioning. In fact it is almost such a perfect technical accomplishment that I would almost have to admire it on technical grounds, which moreover is in the hands of the entirely wrong people.

Stop with the dumb comments You think police are permitted to retaliate with the same level of violence that they're arresting someone over? So you see how silly you sound?

This is what I wrote nearly a year ago about #BlackLivesMatter, but the media kept giving the group a free pass.

> Given Assata Shakur's role as an icon and an inspiration to the 'Black Lives Matter' movement, is BLM really about addressing police brutality, or is it about the re-emergence of a militant leftist revolutionary movement that, with the aid of billionaires like George Soros, who has funded coups overseas, intends to use violence to change society?
> If that is indeed the case, 'Black Lives Matter' cannot be described as anything other than a domestic terrorist organization

One of the ways biased left-wing journalists have tried to get me banned is by filing multiple false DMCA reports with Twitter. What's the legal violation they allege? They say it is stealing to retweet them.

Beth Nakamura, a photographer for the Oregonian, is a moron:

Reported content:

No, the Free Speech Union supports a level playing field. Either scrap the law or apply it equally. The IOC bans all political gestures; taking the knee shouldn't get special treatment. But you knew that @OwenJones84, you're ignoring the facts to further your agenda as per usual.

The traditional role of journalists has been to lead defense of free expression, free speech and especially a free press, while fighting against censorship: for obvious reasons.

In the US, it's the reverse: journalists are so authoritarian that they are pro-censorship activists.

It's so important to recognize what a bizarre situation this is:

Trump's banning from social media was condemned by world leaders - including anti-Trump ones - given the threat to democracy it poses.

It's US "journalists" who continue to lead the fight for online censorship:

The spontaneity and ease of congregation that going to the pub used to represent has gone.

The entire idea of having to 'book' a pub and limit the number of people you can meet defeats the entire purpose.

It's not harassment for editors to ridicule and patronize young freelancers by lording power over them, but it's harassment to point out when this has occurred. Another confusing section added to the "Journos' Guide to Online Harassment" handbook railing against online harassment to enjoy the mockery of a 20-year-old writer of color for having his pitches rejected when he was trying to establish himself in the industry early last year.

Welcome to the fight, but it's a shame that too many leftists only start to give a shit when they become the target of what they advocate for.

The problem would have been a lot easier to deal with if you all started caring in 2016 but better 5 years late than never.

Nobody get put on no-fly lists for political views or even for being racists - you would have obviously heard about David Duke being denied flying anywhere if this was the case. Clearly there's more to it than the tweet suggests.

The lockdown in Spain was extremely strict. In Spain masks must be worn inside and outdoors. Even with these restrictions Spanish cases skyrocketed throughout January. Mandatory social distancing/mask wearing does not work. The UK coronavirus restrictions will achieve nothing.

A major plank of US liberalism (including journalists) is eagerness for more online censorship of political speech.

But since nobody likes to admit they're censors, they've invented a euphemism for it -- "content moderation" -- and constantly demand that instead. Watch for it.

The pro-censorship cliché "can't yell fire in a crowded theater" comes from a now-discredited 1919 SupCt case upholding Woodrow Wilson prosecution of socialists under The Espionage Act for the "crime" of opposing a US role WW1. Why would you want to attach yourself to that?

A new poll has found that a majority of French people support a letter signed by active duty and retired members of the military warning that the country is heading towards a "civil war" caused by failed multiculturalism and attacks on French identity.

Murder probe fizzles

Khater and Tankos case may be the only charges ever brought involving the Sicknick incident

Despite the Justice Department [illegible] the Sicknick [illegible] there have been several hints that prosecutors may never bring a murder case. The probe [illegible] not long after it started due to a lack of evidence of any fatal injury. And the medical examiner initially kept the case "pending" even after releasing findings on others who died that day.

The medical examiner's recent opinion about the manner of death makes it a virtual certainty that prosecutors won't be able to go much further than the existing assault charges, legal experts said.

"This in fact all but assures prosecutors won't charge anyone with homicide related to officer Sicknick's death," former US Attorney Preet Bharara told CNN. "The [illegible] conclusion that he died of natural causes, and it could look like overcharging if prosecutors went that route."

So, the coup attempt was ok? Were all the other deaths and suicides unrelated?

I like the truth BTW, just all of it.

Does Apologizing Work? An Empirical Test of the Conventional Wisdom

Richard Hanania

Columbia University - Academic Affiliate, Institute for War and Peace Studies

Date Written: September 20[illegible]

Abstract

Politicians and other public figures often apologize after making controversial statements. While it is assumed that they are wise to do so, this proposition has yet to be tested empirically. There are reasons to believe that apologizing makes public figures appear weak and subverse, which may make them less admired as people and lead members of the public to want to punish them. This paper presents the results of an experiment where participants were given one version of two matched scenarios involving [illegible] figures. After reading about the particular scandal, participants were asked to what degree they would like to see the individual punished. In the experiment involving Rand Paul and [illegible] the Civil Rights Act, learning that he was apologetic or not changed whether respondents were likely to vote for him. When presented with one version of the controversy involving [illegible] and comments about women, minorities, and the needy, however, liberals and females were significantly more likely to say that he deserved to probably should have faced legal consequences. [illegible] Overall, the evidence suggests that when a prominent figure apologizes for a controversial statement, the public is either unaffected or becomes more likely to desire that the individual be punished.

I've been waiting for an answer to this question since 2014.

If Black Lives Matter really cares about black people, why do they only care about black lives taken by white people and not the 90% of black lives that are taken by other black people?

Riddle me that.

Watch the cultural left try to cope with the fact that not only is their Woke Ideology no threat to any power centers anywhere, but the opposite is true: those power centers love it and embrace it because of how helpful it is to them.

Detached irony, as usual, is all they have:

Lewis Hamilton is living proof of the "systemic racism" he complains about.

A multi-time world champion & he only has;

– 15 supercars

– 4 luxury homes

– A £60 milion a year contract with Mercedes

– A net worth of $285 million

The struggle is real.

3 types of mask wearers.

- Older people who are genuinely at risk (fair enough).

- People who have been so terrorised by media coverage, they think COVID is literally everywhere outside.

- People who want to feel smug in their obedience & to broadcast they are better than you.
